The Palace at Santa Candida

Concepcion del Uruguay - Entre Rios - Argentina

Superb High Volume Shooting

Our newest lodge, The Palace at Santa Candida, offers year round high volume dove shooting located only 3 hours by private ground transfer from Buenos Aires.

Our ability to offer our guests true high volume dove shoots so close to Buenos Aires is big news for dove shooting in Argentina and we are happy to have exclusive rights to operate this one of a kind destination.

As always, our goal is to exceed your expectations by providing a superb lodging experience, a professional and hard working team at the lodge and in the field coupled with the finest shooting experience.

Our shooting area, located just north of Buenos Aires in the province of Entre Rios, is a fertile region with an abundance of grain production and freshwater creeks and streams interspersed with thickly wooded roosting areas. This combination of abundant food and cover has created an incredible population of eared doves numbered in the millions. Most of our hunts take place along established flight paths as doves move between their roost, watering holes and grain fields. Average drive times are 15 to 45 minutes.

Be it veterans to Argentina dove shooting or first timers, the shooting at Santa Candida will leave any hunter amazed.

Accommodations

The Palace at Santa Candida is truly an Argentine castle. The "lodge" is 22,000 square feet and was built in 1847 by General Urquiza who was later president of Argentina. In this amazing setting, you will find the Argentina of a bygone era, a place where all that you encounter inside and outside the home are the original furnishing and decorations. As always with Argentina Outfitters, our guests will enjoy a superb lodging experience with first class service, cuisine and a professional staff. Non shooting activities, massages and laundry are also available.
